Halloween town series cast

Get the best moments in pop culture and entertainment delivered to your inbox. Are you ready for Renee Zellweger on tv screens? While Zellweger has been a Hollywood essential for decades at this point, she has never decorated a small screen before. So, let it on Netflix actually hook it up with a brand new series, What/If. In the 10-episode series, Zellweger stars as venture capitalist Anne Montgomery and, according to the show's description, the series explores the ripple effect of what happens when acceptable people start doing unacceptable things... [the show] will deal with a different story of morality inspired by culturally consequential material and the power of a single fateful decision to change the trajectory of a lifetime. Yes, well, where do we register? Unfortunately, the show is already getting panned by critics, but frankly, maybe it just makes it even more watchable if we know it's going to be something else. Zellweger isn't the only one in the series, of course, and she's joined a dozen different actors and actresses you're more than likely to come across on your own TV watching before. If you've settled down to watch what/If over the holiday weekend, here's a handy who's who of the cast and exactly where you've seen them before. Halloween is almost here, and while one of the best ways you can spend your vacation at home is to curl up on the couch with a bowl of candy and a good horror movie, it's also a great time to binge some of the best horror series available on streaming services. But which one should you look at? Whether you're in the mood for psychological horror, gruesome murders, supernatural teen dramas, or maybe even some kind of terror combined with laughter, there's something for everyone. Here we get 13 top rated horror shows available for streaming, based on reelgood scores and imdb reviews. Looking for more concerns? Check out more Halloween-themed entertainment:

right now 13. Teen Wolf (2011) - 84% It may be surprising that this supernatural teen drama kicks off our list. Loosely based on the 1985 film of the same name, which starred Michael J. Fox as the title character, it features Tyler Posey as Scott McCall, a young werewolf who must defend his city from various threats, including some ugly creatures. It aired for six seasons and was quite positively rated. It's a fun, slightly scary show to watch with your teenagers who are too old to trick-or-be. Watch on Amazon Prime 12. Ash vs. Evil Dead (2015) - 84% As a sequel to the original Trilogy of Evil Dead, this comedy horror series sees Bruce Campbell reprise his role as Ash Williams, a man who has fought hordes of evil demons over the years and saved the world several times, only to return to his old work and exciting lifestyle with a missing hand to show it. In the latest series, Ash tries to a normal life but a cursed Necronomicon tome that awakens demons has other plans for him and someone unlucky to be around him. Cancelled Starz after three seasons, the series successfully channeled over-the-top gore and the irreverent comedy that made the original movies cult classics. Watch on Netflix 11. Bates Motel (2013) - 85% Chronicle of the early years of the murderous innkeeper Norman Bates from Alfred Hitchcock's 1960 horror classic Psycho, this psychological drama looks at Bates' life as a young man living with his mother, Norma. Ending after its fifth season by freely adapting the plot of Psycho, Netflix has all 50 episodes available for streaming, making for a nice, scary binge in time for Halloween. Watch on Netflix 10. American Horror Story (2011) – 85% This long-running anthology horror series that made Ryan Murphy a household name has terrified and confused viewers for nearly a decade with its haunting, sadistic stories about everything from the house haunted by the ghosts of its former owners to the blood-sucking hotel matron. While each season has its own separate story, many actors have returned to play different characters, including Evan Peters, Sarah Paulson, Lily Rabe, Kathy Bates, Angela Bassett, and Jessica Lange. The last season, 1984, aired in September 2019, and the series has already been renewed for three more. Watch on Netflix Watch on Hulu Watch on Amazon Prime 9. What We Do in the Shadows (2019) - 86% This New Zealand mockumentary horror/comedy series is based on the same name 2014 and needs to be watched for the Halloween season. The documentary crew follows four vampire roommates, each with different special abilities and different personalities, from 757-year-old Nandor, who became obsessed with Macarena to Nadja, who is secretly seeing a man behind her vampire husband's back. So far, two seasons have been in the making, with the third already confirmed. Watch on Hulu 8. Penny Terrible (2014) - 86% of Showtime's British-American horror drama lasted three seasons and a total of 27 episodes, and featured a number of iconic characters, from 19th-century British and Irish Gothic fiction, from Oscar Wilde's Dorian Gray to Abraham Ven Helsing and Mary Shelley's Frankenstein. His mix of reality and the supernatural was so popular that he spawned a spinoff, Penny Dreadful: City of Angels, which premiered in April 2020 but lasted only one season. Watch on Netflix 7. The Haunting of Hill House (2018) - 88% This supernatural horror drama, loosely based on Shirley Jackson's 1959 novel of the same name, follows the lives of five adult siblings who continue to be haunted by the paranormal experiences they had when they were younger. Alternating between two different timelines, you'll be on the edge of your seat during the 10-episode first season. Season 2, Haunting of Bly Manor, has just been released and is already receiving rave reviews, ranking at 81%, just shy of making it Watch On Netflix Watch Haunting Bly Manor 6. The Vampire Diaries (2009) - 88% The second supernatural teen drama on the list, this one is based on lj smith's book series of the same name and aired for eight seasons on the CW. Nina Dobrev stars as a teenager named Elena, who, after losing both her parents in a car accident, falls to a 162-year-old vampire named Stefan (Paul Wesley). Dobrev also plays Katherine, a vampire with a strange resemblance to Elena and past love stefan and his older brother, Damon (Ian Somerhalder.) It's more vampire soap opera than horror, but if you're looking for something less scary and more story-driven, this may be the right choice for Halloween night. Watch on Netflix 5. Hannibal (2013) - 88% Based on characters and events from Thomas Harris's novels Red Dragon, Hannibal and Hannibal Rising, the story follows FBI Special Investigator Will Graham and his relationship with Dr. Hannibal Lecter, a forensic psychiatrist who is unsu aware of Graham, a very serial killer he hunts. The series, which developed an iconic following, aired three seasons on NBC, so you'll want to start bingeing now to get through all 39 episodes. Watch on Netflix 4. Twin Peaks (1990) - 90% This mysterious series, which follows the investigation into the suspected murder of the prom queen of the city, spawned an iconic sequel, although it lasted only two seasons in its original run. It was so well-received, in fact, that the series was resurrected in 2017 with a third season that aired on Showtime with many of the original cast members reprising their roles. Its blend of supernatural science fiction with melodramatic soap opera creates a unique series. Start early to get through all 48 episodes. Watch on Netflix Watch on Hulu Watch on CBS All Access 3. The Walking Dead (2010) - 92% If you wanted to watch The Walking Dead but never got around to it, now's the time to go, as the post-apocalyptic horror series ends after the upcoming extended season of 9/11. Yes, there are 10 seasons to get through this series, which is based on robert kirkman comics of the same name about different groups of survivors of a virus that sees people rise from the dead like zombies. As the main group travels, seeking shelter and trying to rebuild communities and some semblance of life, they face enemies far greater than just the walking dead. It's an exciting ride that gets you invested so much in characters that walk, moan, disfigure meat-eating creatures with a backdrop of more critical human stories. Once done, check out spinoffs like Fear the Walking Dead and The Walking Dead: World Beyond, with a few more to come. Watch on Netflix 2. Supernatural (2005) - 93% Two brothers hunt supernatural creatures, from demons to ghosts and monsters in this highly rated series that aired on WB for an incredible 15 seasons before the end in 2019. As the longest-serving American Fantasy TV series, there is no way to get through all 323 episodes before October 31. But halloween season is a good time to start. The first season sets the stage as Sam and Dean's father disappear during a hunting trip, leading the two boys to come together and head out on the open road to find him. As they hunt evil spirits, they learn the history of their lives and the special forces that exploit and study the twists and turns of the following seasons. Watch on Netflix 1. Stranger Things (2016) - 96% Perfect Halloween binge, there are three seasons and 25 episodes to date of this sci-fi horror series, set in the fictional town of Hawkins, Indiana, in the early 1980s. A group of young boys meet a young girl with special powers, and they - and the city's police chief - find themselves caught in the middle of supernatural events involving monsters, mysterious disappearances, and gruesome deaths. It's goonies for a new generation, and with a lot more special effects, blood, and gore. Catch up now, so you're ready for the upcoming fourth season. Watch on Netflix Honorable Mention: Lovecraft Country (2016) – 96% Definitely worth noting is the new HBO Max series Lovecraft Country, which was just shy of making the top 13 in a rating of 83%.
